

DETAILS OF THE SUICIDE.

Gen. Macdonald Shot Himself in The Right Temple.

EXPIRED IN A FEW MINUTES

Arrived in Paris Friday on His Way Back to Ceylon—Death Causes Great Sorrow in London.

Paris, March 25.—Major-General Hector Macdonald, commanding the British forces in Ceylon and one of the foremost officers in the British army, against whom charges based on immoral acts were filed some time ago, committed suicide today at the Regina hotel, shortly after noon, and expired a few minutes later. The general was alone in his small chamber at the time of the tragedy. One of the female attendants heard the pistol shot, and, opening the door, saw the general's figure stretched out on the floor with blood gushing from a bullet wound in the head. She ran screaming to the balcony overlooking the lobby of the hotel, where many guests, including a number of ladies, were assembled. The proprietor of the hotel was the first to reach the expiring man. Medical help was immediately summoned, but was found to be useless, death ensuing quickly on the fatal act. The commissary of police was notified, and, accompanied by a doctor, proceeded to make a preliminary investigation. No money or papers of any kind were found in Sir Hector's baggage.

Two notes written in English were found lying on a table in his room, and these were taken possession of by the authorities, but it is understood that their contents have no bearing on the suicide. In the general's coat lying on the bed, were found some photographs. The British embassy and consulate were notified later, and Consul General Inglis visited the hotel, and took charge of the body, which was placed on the bed. The door was then locked, the naval general taking the key. The French officials took possession of the revolver, which was of nine millimeter caliber, and apparently new.

Sir Hector Macdonald arrived in Paris last Friday evening from London on his way back to Ceylon, where it was understood that an immediate court-martial would be held to clear up the charges made against him. On reaching the hotel at 11 o'clock, it was said that only a small and different room was available. He remained there until about 10 o'clock, when he was accompanied by an aide-de-camp or valet. He said he intended to stay only a day or two in Paris. Little was seen of him after his arrival. He was, however, in the lobby the morning after the suicide, in the lobby of the hotel, where it is believed that a newspaper printed in English containing a resume of the charges brought against him and mentioned with the general's portrait in full uniform, came under his attention. He left the lobby, going to his room, and the pistol shot followed soon after.

No arrangements have yet been made as to the disposition of the body, which is subject to the order of the British authorities. Both the British embassy and Gen. Inglis have advised London of the tragedy and are awaiting definite instructions. The general's suicide has profoundly shocked the British officials here. Those about the hotel who had conversed with Sir Hector Macdonald recently say he showed no signs of excitement or mental worry. They describe him as of solidly bearing, slightly under middle height, with broad face and a slight gray mustache. He was dressed in a dark gray traveling suit.

It feeds the hair

Ayer's Hair Vigor is a hair food. It feeds, nourishes, invigorates the hair. That's why it makes the hair grow, stops falling hair, and keeps the scalp free from dandruff. It always restores color to gray hair, all the deep, rich color of early life. And it is an elegant dressing. $1.00 a bottle. J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

In contrast to the circumstances surrounding the death of Gen. Macdonald was the death of a young man, near his death chamber. Owing to precautions taken to prevent the death of the young man, the hotel was filled with guests going to and returning from the theater and opera. The body lay in an adjoining chamber. There are no witnesses on the side of the corpse.

CAUSES SORROW IN LONDON. London, March 25.—The tragic end of "Fighting Mac," who, as the son of a draper's assistant, rose from a position of a draper's assistant to an honored general in the army, has caused great surprise and deep sorrow in London. The nature of the offenses with which he was charged had not been generally known, but had been common gossip in military circles, and although in the army and among his highlander comrades especially, there is keen grief, the feeling is that it is better to die than live in dishonor. Sir Hector Macdonald was separated from his wife many years ago, before he got his commission. He had not lived with her since. He leaves a son, who is being educated in an English public school.

Sir Hector Macdonald's great chance came when, as a sergeant during the Afghan campaign in 1879 and 1880 with a small force, he, by a furious bayonet charge, cleared out a body of Afghans who were lying in ambush for the British. For this feat Lord Roberts offered him the choice of the Victoria cross or a commission. He chose the latter. His greatest military achievement was leading the black Soudanese brigade in the Omdurman campaign against the Khalifa.

The official announcement made by the government of Ceylon on Monday that Sir Hector Macdonald had been court-martialed and the publicity given to the affair were evidently the determining motive for the suicide. His broken health and shattered nerves, the outcome of two campaigns in the Soudan and South Africa. An attack of dysentery and a touch of sunstroke at Pandroba, the chief of the Victorian campaign left serious effects and a wound received in the leg healed badly.

It is said that he often complained of pains in the head, and in Ceylon his health and the depression he was suffering grew worse to such an extent that there was talk of invaliding him from the service.

The newspapers comment sympathetically on the pitiful end of a brave man, and say that his countrymen will remember him best as the man of whom, or his return from Omdurman, King Edward, then Prince of Wales, greeted him, said: "In 1879 you were doing sentry duty in India and now you are a general in the army. I am proud to have met you."

ELKINS ANTI TRUST BILL

Several Railroad Men Claim Its Authorship. Chicago, March 25.—During the progress of a meeting of western railway officials for the purpose of discussing the Elkins law it came to light that Paul Morton, second vice president of the Santa Fe, E. D. Kenna, first vice president and general counsel of the same road, and A. J. Cassatt of the Pennsylvania, are authors of the bill.

It is said that the first draft of the bill was made by Mr. Kenna and embodied the ideas of the three men. This draft was submitted to the president, attorney-general and the chairman of the Interstate commerce commission, and was subsequently amended. As finally adopted the bill was essentially prepared from the suggestions made by Messrs. Cassatt, Morton and Kenna, after repeated conferences at the executive mansion.

Sale of Staffordshire Plates. New York, March 25.—The sale of Staffordshire plates of the Burritt collection at the American Art galleries attracted buyers from many places. Prices ranged from about $40 to $750, and the total realized was $5,800.

Wright Will Stay in Jail

New York, March 25.—Judge Lacombe, in the United States circuit court, today denied the application of Whitaker Wright for bail, without prejudice, to his incarceration when evidential papers arrive and the precise acts complained of are fully set forth. Thus the application to discharge Wright from custody was denied. Wright's counsel said he would at once appeal the case to the United States supreme court on a writ of error.

Fort Sheridan Prisoners Escape

Chicago, March 25.—With the aid of a skeleton key, which they filed from a spoon, Benjamin Adams and James Marion, two prisoners at Fort Sheridan, escaped the lock of the cell door in the guardhouse last night, then unlocked another door leading through the kitchen and escaped on a passing freight train. Both of the men were being kept in solitary confinement. A guard stationed near the door of the kitchen saw them emerge, and after commanding them to halt, fired several shots, but it is believed none of the bullets took effect. Adams was to have been returned to Texas today to serve out a sentence of three years for horse stealing.

Daring Automobile Ride

Washington, March 25.—Three men, in an automobile, tried to ride up the steps at the east front of the Capitol today. They reached the second landing, sixteen steps from the street, when the chain of the vehicle broke and it ran backward without accident. The man who acted as chauffeur gave the name of J. D. Harbort, and said he was from Detroit, Mich. His companions did not give their names, but one of them said he was a police commissioner from Hartford, Conn. The chauffeur was arrested, but later released on $10 collateral.

Too Soon for Reunions

New Orleans, March 25.—In addressing the local Grand Army men today, Gen. Thomas Stewart, commander-in-chief, said reunions were rapidly dying out in both north and south, but he did not think a reunion of the blue and gray was yet in sight.

Lake Forest Still Under Quarantine

Chicago, March 25.—The decision to raise the scarlet fever quarantine at Lake Forest tomorrow has been revoked and it will be continued 10 days longer. The discovery of four new cases led to this change. The closing of the college has been extended from two weeks to 17 days, and public meetings will be prohibited for two weeks more.

THE MEN AND WOMEN

Who Enjoy the Choicest Products of the World's Commerce.

Knowledge of What Is Best More Important Than Wealth Without It.

It must be apparent to every one that quality of the highest order are necessary to enable the best of the products of modern commerce to attain permanently to universal acceptance. However loudly heralded, they may not hope for world-wide acceptance unless they meet with the general approval of individuals only, but of the many who have the happy faculty of selecting, enjoying and learning the real worth of the choicest products. Their commendation, consequently, becomes important to others, since it meets the requirements of the well informed of all countries the method of manufacture must be of the most perfect order and the combination the most excellent of its kind. The above is true not of food products only, but is especially applicable to medicinal agents and after nearly a quarter of a century of growth and general use the excellent remedy, Syrup of Figs, is everywhere accepted, throughout the world, as the best of family laxatives. Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative and carminative principles of the plants known to act most beneficially on the system and presented in the form of a pleasant and refreshing liquid, but also to the method of manufacture of the California Fig Syrup Co., which ensures that uniformity and purity essential in a remedy intended for family use. Ask any physician who is well informed and he will answer at once that it is an excellent laxative. If at all eminent in his profession and has made a special study of laxatives and their effects upon the system he will tell you that it is the best of family laxatives, because it is simple and wholesome and cleanses and sweetens the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after-effects. Every well-informed druggist of reputable standing knows that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative and is glad to sell it at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, because it gives general satisfaction, but one should remember that in order to get the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs it is necessary to buy the genuine, which is sold in original packages only; the name of the remedy—Syrup of Figs and also the full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package.

the Brooklyn bridge. He takes great pride in his long life. "I think it is due," he said, "to the fact that I thoroughly masticate my food and that I have never drunk liquor or smoked. I have chewed tobacco, however, since I was a boy. I have always taken a full hour to each meal, sometimes more. If people nowadays would masticate their food as I do, they would properly there would not be so much trouble from indigestion and dyspepsia and they would live longer."

was as fresh and vigorous as any of his younger friends. He was born in The Hague and with his brother occupied the same old house in which he was born.

Although Dutch masters, like Israel and others, valued Weissbach's genius for many years, he did not become prominent outside of Holland until 19 years ago when his "Cloudy Day near Haarlem" was exhibited in London and created considerable comment. Since that time he had been awarded many medals and decorations.

Platt for Low's Renomination

New York, March 25.—Senator Thomas C. Platt at a conference of Republican leaders held in his room in the Fifth avenue hotel last night declared for the renomination of Seth Low for mayor and announced that he would do everything in his power to cause his election.

Senator Platt believes the mayor's administration has demonstrated the success of the fusion movement, and he favors a similar movement this year.
